Teadeeve How it works.

The Eigenart tea mug is a double-walled porcelain mug with a lid and a high-quality stainless steel strainer insert for full-bodied tea enjoyment.

The double wall of the mug has a heat-insulating effect and makes it a delight to hold - even without a handle.

The sturdy stainless steel strainer with its patterned extends far into the mug and leaves plenty of room for the tea to develop its aroma.

The Eigenart team loves beautiful designs: Matt and shiny elements, haptic structures, metallic effects and special lacquering make each teadeeve a special and unique piece.

- Double-walled
- attractive design
- Lid serves as a tray for the stainless steel tea strainer

Flowtea. How it works.

The Eigenart Flowtea is a double-walled glass bottle for enjoying tea, coffee and juice. The stainless steel strainer, which sits firmly in the Flowtea, can be used both as a tea infuser for loose tea and leaf tea.

An easy-grip stainless steel lid with screw cap and seal prevents the contents from leaking. All Flowteas are printed with decorations on the inner cylinder and finished with gold or metal plating or sandblasting.

The simple neoprene sleeve with its hand-flattering embossing and bordered logo serves not only to transport the glass bottle, but also arouses curiosity about the contents and is an additional eye-catcher.

- Printing on the inner glass
- 2-piece stainless steel tea strainer with fine perforation
- Firm handle on the lid

07. Teafan

Love your Rituals.

Teafan. How it works.

The tea fan is a very special tea filter. Each one is hand-painted, glued and decorated. Under the head is the tea strainer, which can be filled with loose tea.

Once filled, the head is placed in the cup, where it floats on the tea. The elaborate hole punching of the tea strainer enables a full-bodied development of the tea aroma.

When the tea has steeped long enough, the strainer is simply placed back into the body. The liquid can drip off into the tea fan.

- Hand-painted tea infuser
- High quality strainer
- Floats on the tea water
- Residual liquid drips into into the body
